

Jeff Young joins Music for All as Director of Camps

INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA – Jeff Young will join Music for All in January 2022 as Director of Camps, directing and overseeing the Music for All Summer Symposium and initiatives to expand Music for All’s camp offerings.

Mr. Young will be part of the Music for All staff in the organization’s Indianapolis headquarters. He previously taught science at Carmel High School, Carmel, IN, where he was also the visual caption head for the Grand National Champion Carmel marching band.

Headquartered in Indianapolis, Indiana, Music for All, Inc. is a nonprofit, 501(c)3 educational organization that presents more than 60 programs and events across America annually and is a voice advocating for music and arts education in all scholastic environments. Over the past 18 months, Music for All has also launched several webinars and podcasts serving current and future music educators.

“After a long and fulfilling career working at Carmel High School, I am extremely excited to step away from full-time teaching and join the team at Music for All,” says Young. “I will work to ensure the success and sustainability of educational camps, including the Summer Symposium. I have immensely enjoyed working with the Summer Symposium staff and students, which has been arguably my favorite week of the year for more than 15 years. I’m honored to embark on this new adventure with Music for All, creating positively life-changing experiences for students and directors from all over the country.”

“Jeff Young has been a core part of Music for All’s educational team as the coordinator of our Summer Symposium marching band division and member of the Bands of America Honor Band in the Rose Parade faculty,” says James P. Stephens, Director of Education and Advocacy for Music for All. “As Director of Camps, Jeff brings his knowledge and expertise to our preparations for our flagship Summer Symposium while steering our plans for additional camp offerings in the future.”
